the company of singers

Consisting of some of the finest professional vocalists and instrumentalists in the southeast, The Company of Singers will strive to be one of the leading professional choral/orchestral organizations in the region. With a commitment to sacred choral works from the Renaissance to the 21st century, the group's main focus will be the performance of Classic period masterworks of Mozart, Haydn, and Beethoven.

Daniel Cole, founder and director, was a founding member of the award-winning Concord Ensemble, a professional male sextet committed to exceptional performances of music of the Renaissance. The ensemble performed both nationally and internationally, including performances at the Regensburg Festival, Carnegie Hall, and Disney Hall in Los Angeles, and recorded on the Dorian Records label (now Sono Luminus). Cole was also a member of Paul Hillier's Theatre of Voices and Pro Arte Singers. These ensembles can be heard on the Harmonia Mundi label.

It is our goal that The Company of Singers reach a comparable apex of performance that breathes fresh spirit and life into these exceptional historic compositions, offering great musicians and great music lovers the opportunity to experience these works afresh, if not for the first time.

We'd love you to be an integral part of our company! Please consider helping us get rooted in the Columbia music community by making a donation today.
